

CONSTITUENT POWER

LAW, POPULAR RULE
AND POLITICS

EDITED BY MATILDA ARVIDSSON, LEILA BRÄNNSTRÖM AND
PANU MINKKINEN

Constituent Power

Law, Popular Rule and Politics

Edited by

Matilda Arvidsson, University of Gothenburg

Leila Brännström, Lund University

Panu Minkkinen, University of Helsinki

Analyses the political and legal power of 'the people' in contemporary democratic societies

- Presents interdisciplinary perspectives from legal theory, political theory, and the history of ideas
- Brings together an international range of contributors from Europe, North America and Latin America
- Provides in-depth analyses of contemporary problems that afflict constitutional democracies globally
- Includes a lead essay by Benjamin Ardit, a leading global expert on populism and popular sovereignty

With a strong focus on constitutional law, this book examines the complex relationship between constitutional democracy and 'the people'. Contributors explore this relationship through the lens of radical democracy, engaging with the work of figures such as Arendt, Schmitt, Lefort and Rancière.

Hardback £75 | $100 October 2020 232 pages
ISBN: 9781474454971 Also available in ebook

Special offer: save 30%

Visit <https://edinburghuniversitypress.com/book/9781474454971>
and use the discount code NEW30

EDINBURGH
University Press