

A description of the processing of personal data for scientific research purposes (privacy notice; Articles 13, 14 and 30 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679)

Personal data processed in the survey for schoolchildren in the study Yhdenvertainen liikunnallinen lähio (YLLI) – Equality in suburban physical activity environments

The purpose of this scientific study is to investigate the physical activities and the environments of the physical activities of the residents of Kontula in Helsinki and Huhtasuo in Jyväskylä and to investigate the accessibility of physical activity environments in the research areas.

This privacy notice concerns the survey for schoolchildren. This privacy notice is published on the study's website before contacting the research participants. The research notification (information about the study) given to the research participants and their guardians includes a link to the website.

The following personal information are collected in the schoolchildren's survey: gender, year in school, residential area, physical activities, locations of physical activities, and use of social media regarding physical activity. The collected personal identifiers are indirect (cannot be directly linked to a child).

The survey for schoolchildren is a part of a larger data collection. These other data include observations of physical activity environments, traffic volume, personal and group interviews, phone interviews for adults, public posts on social media, and various geographic materials.

Legal basis for the processing of personal data for research/archiving purposes

In this study, the processing of personal data is necessary for scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes, and it is correctly proportional in relation to the goal in accordance with public interest (section 4.1(3) of the Finnish data protection act). By answering the survey, participants give their consent to the processing of data which includes the personal information described above. For children under 15 years of age, a parent's/guardian's consent is requested before answering the survey (EU 679/2016 6.1 a).

Transferring personal data outside the EU/EEA

During this study, personal data will not be transferred outside the EU/EEA.

Protection of personal data

In this study, the processing of personal data is based on a proper research plan, and a responsible person has been appointed for the study. Personal data will only be used and disclosed for purposes of conducting historical or scientific research or for other similar purposes (statistics), and it is otherwise ensured that no data about the participants is disclosed to unauthorised parties.

Prevention of identifiability

Data will be analysed using indirect identification data for the purposes of scientific research.

Personal data used in the study will be protected by means of

- username
- password
- other, please specify: The data will be handled and stored following the research data processing practices of the University of Jyväskylä.

A separate data protection impact assessment (DPIA) has been conducted/the Data Protection Ombudsman has been heard regarding the DPIA.

- Yes

The researchers have completed data protection and information security training.

- Yes

Agreements have been and will be signed with research assistants and/or processors/joint controllers of personal data.

THE PROCESSING OF PERSONAL DATA AFTER THE STUDY

- The research register will be archived with indirect identification data.

The data will be archived with identification data:

- Based on public interest. The processing of research data containing personal data for archiving purposes is necessary to fulfil the goal set for public interest (section 4.4 of the data protection act)

More information about the duration and location of archiving: The data will be archived on the servers of the University of Jyväskylä for 10 years after the completion of the study (years 2023–2033). After that the data will be anonymised and given to a national or international archive or it will be destroyed.

Rights of data subjects

No direct personal information is collected in the survey, and so the following rights of data subjects can be realised only if you can be identified based on your responses.

Right to access data (Article 15, GDPR)

You have the right to obtain information about whether your personal data is processed, and which personal data is processed. If required, you can request a copy of the personal data processed.

Right to have data rectified (Article 16, GDPR)

If there are any inaccuracies or errors in the processing of your personal data, you have the right to request your personal data to be rectified or supplemented.

Right to have data erased (Article 17, GDPR)

You have the right to request your personal data to be erased in certain situations. However, the right to have data erased does not exist if the erasure prevents the purpose of processing from being fulfilled for scientific research purposes or makes it much more difficult.

Right to the restriction of processing (Article 18, GDPR)

You have the right to restrict the processing of your personal data in certain situations, such as if you deny the accuracy of your personal data.

Right to object (Article 21, GDPR)

You have the right to object to the processing of your personal data if processing is based on public or legitimate interest. As a result, the university cannot process your personal data unless it can prove that processing is based on a significantly important and justified reason which supersedes your rights.

Derogation from the rights of data subjects

Derogation from the aforementioned rights is possible in certain individual situations on the basis of the GDPR and the Finnish data protection act, insofar as the rights prevent scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes being fulfilled or make it much more difficult. The need for derogation must always be assessed separately in each situation.

Profiling and automated decision making

In this study, your personal data will not be used in automated decision making. In this study, the purpose of the processing of personal data is not to assess your personal characteristics, i.e. profiling. Instead, your personal data and characteristics will be assessed from the perspective of broader scientific research.

Executing the rights of data subjects

If you have any questions about the rights of data subjects, please contact the university's data protection officer. All requests related to the execution of rights must be sent to the registry office of the University of Jyväskylä. Registry office and archive, P.O. Box 35 (C), 40014 University of Jyväskylä, tel.: +358 (0)40 805 3472, email: kirjaamo@jyu.fi. Visiting address: Seminaarinkatu 15, Building C (Main Building, 1st floor), Room C 140.

Any data breaches or suspicions of data breaches must be reported to the University of Jyväskylä.
